VERA CRUZ RAILWAY SEIZED BY FORCES OF UNITED STATES

Major Smedley D. Butler Leads Detachment of Marines to Capture Strategic Point Held by Huerta's Men.

MEXICANS ARE MASSING TO ATTACK AMERICANS

Reported Huerta's General Is Gathering Troops to Attempt to Retake Vera Cruz. Americans Say Mexicans Cannot Retake City.

Washington, April 23.—American marines and bluejackets today gained possession of breakwaters three miles inland from Vera Cruz. This position is on the railroad to Mexico City, and had been in possession of Huerta's since the United States forces took possession of the city.

General Gustavo Maza, former Mexican commander at Vera Cruz, was reported today to be intending to move against the city with strong reinforcements brought up from Puebla.

Major Smedley D. Butler, of the marine corps, was dispatched on outpost duty with a detachment of marines to a position a few miles beyond the western limits of the city on the railroad. They took light field pieces with them. Many of the men were drawn from the Panama battalion formerly under the command of Major Butler.

The city was prepared throughout the night for an attack by the Mexicans. Captain Rush, acting under the orders of Rear Admiral Fletcher, continued in immediate command of the garrison.

With the exception of the tramping of detachments of sailors and marines, there was scarcely a sound in the city, but occasionally a sniping shot was heard from the suburbs.

6,000 AMERICANS HOLD VERA CRUZ.

The strength of the American forces on shore at Vera Cruz was estimated this morning at 6,000 by Commander Charles P. Hughes, chief of staff to Rear Admiral Charles J. Butler. They are accompanied by a full equipment of field guns and machine guns.

Although General Gustavo Maza was reported to be assembling inland several thousand Mexican troops for an assault on the city, Commander Hughes said that the American force in Vera Cruz was capable of repelling such an attack without using the ship's big guns, which might cause damage to the city.

Rear Admiral Badger's latest figures this morning gave the total of the American casualties as 13 dead and 45 wounded.

Several of the latter are probably fatally hurt. Flag officers from the American fleet boarded every liner today and asked permission to land and to land and to land. They warned the commanders not to land war supplies. Several small coasting vessels were taken in charge by American officers.

The flag officers were instructed to impress upon all the Mexican ship commanders and others that the United States was not making war on Mexico, but was merely trying to force Vera Cruz in order to obtain reparations for indemnities.

No alarming reports were received from Tampico today, but an American squadron ordered the breakwater was closed and ready to proceed there at an hour's notice.

HOW AMERICANS TOOK VERA CRUZ.

Early yesterday afternoon the city of Vera Cruz was in undisputed possession of the American invading force. Although there was no organized force against them, the invaders were less than 200 men at any time during the fighting, eight of whom were killed and twenty wounded. While the Mexicans suffered more severely, the number of their casualties had not been ascertained, but the best estimate indicated that in the engagements of Tuesday and Wednesday their dead amounted to about 150. No person was seen dead, but many were wounded, as a large part of them were taken away and hidden in the city.

In the streets about the plaza Vedado, a majority of them were seen in the morning. They were evidently had been dead since the engagement of Tuesday and the tropical heat made their disposal imperative. One of the first orders given after the town had been captured was to bury the dead.

When the city was taken, the order was given to advance carefully and search every building for men bearing arms.

Groups of prisoners were taken, most of them protesting violently, many hysterically, that they were not guilty of any unfriendliness toward the Americans. Accustomed as the city was to their own controlling forces, they immediately shooting all prisoners taken, the captured men could not believe that they would be executed. The guns found in houses were thrown by the marines into the streets to the pavement below.

The most spirited action of Wednesday was the taking of the naval academy, which had been in the hands of the Americans for some time. A hot fire was poured into the advancing Americans from the naval college.

are two things that must enter into the optical business. Combining these two with high-grade workmanship, careful attention, honest dealings, and the grinding of the greater portion of prescriptions written for glasses by our better oculists, has fully demonstrated the fact that there is something indescribable about the way in which we conduct our business that few opticians have been able to understand. ANNOUNCEMENT FROM QUINCY
EXPECTED EARLY NEXT WEEK
Waycross, Ga., April 12.—(Special).—Reports from Quincy, Mo., indicate that Judge J. W. Quincy will make a statement before the legislature on the subject of the judicial congressional matter early next week. Judge Quincy was in Waycross yesterday on a route bound from Florida county, where he resided at the regular time of superior court.

The general opinion seems to be that Judge Quincy will announce for congress the next year from Waycross and make a statement of the automobile tax that is a serious part of the eleven, and his actions are taken up by his friends and by those disbelievers with the situation in the legislature to mean but one thing—an annuity of the rural route mileage.

RURAL MAIL CARRIERS WILL BE ADJUDGED IN MISLEAD MATTER
State Treasurer W. J. Spear is in receipt of the following letter regarding the rural route mileage of the automobile tax.
"Having read in an afternoon paper that you were in a quandary as to the apportionment of the automobile tax among the various counties of the state, it being necessary ascertain the rural route mileage in order to make the apportionment according to the law. I am sure that the postmasters at this office from Wayne and Florida counties will gladly supply you with the information showing the rural route mileage of each carrier in the respective counties they serve.

The difference, were you to apply to the postmaster at this office for the desired information, he would instruct each carrier in writing and in this way it would be easily done, as each carrier is familiar with the route of his carrier. In the year 1904, I served, I pass through three counties, to wit: Morgan, Greene and Paulding counties. I have served the rural route mileage in Putnam and two miles in Greene county; I have served the rural route mileage in Morgan and two miles in Greene county. I have twenty-five miles in Morgan county and the rural route has four miles in Morgan county and three miles in Greene county. The postmaster general has frequently issued orders requesting postmasters to assist in this manner he can concentrate the good roads movement and especially on the rural route, therefore, I feel assured that the desired information can easily be obtained.

"The rural carrier, individually and through their association, will gladly assist in obtaining the desired information."

"Assuring you of my personal co-operation in this effort to secure statistical data of your county."

PUBLICATIONS FOR COMMISSIONERS
RECEIVED BY GOVERNOR SLATON
Governor Slaton arrived in the city yesterday morning and received in Brunswick and Savannah. He found quite a mass of letters awaiting him, among them being applications for commissions in the National Guard of Georgia. With the war still going on and the fact that Georgia is to be played in by no means determined, this is not a bad beginning and will, therefore, I feel assured that the rural route in the grand old commonwealth of Georgia.

Before very long we may expect to have a brand-new crop of military officers who will vie in valor with Colonel Bob Boring, Colonel John S. Cantler, Major John S. Spence, Major Marcus Beck and others who went to the front when their country called them at the outbreak of war with Spain.

WILL IN GUBERNATORIAL RACE?
NO NEW CANDIDATES APPEAR
There seems to be a temporary lull in the crop of gubernatorial candidates. For so far no new one has bobbed up. It is generally understood, however, that by the end of next week things will take definite shape. At that time it is thought the decision of Judge W. S. Thomas will be definitely made. Should he decide not to run, at least we will know what names will jump into the contest instantly. On the other hand, should he decide to make the race, it will alter the effect of cutting down the crop of gubernatorial candidates.

ATTORNEY GENERAL FELT AND INSURANCE
Attorney General Warren Grice has been indirectly drawn into the war situation. No one is going to fight. He is going to stay here and run for attorney general; but he is possibly the first official of the state to be called on to decide an interesting question. Wednesday night, Ogle Grice, the first cousin, who is sergeant major of the Fifth regiment, called on the attorney general to see if he could make a claim for a far-off Mexico his life insurance would be paid. The attorney general reserved his decision. He should decide not to run, at least we will know what names will jump into the contest instantly. On the other hand, should he decide to make the race, it will alter the effect of cutting down the crop of gubernatorial candidates.

BATTLE FOR LIFE OF LEO M. FRANK BEGINS IN COURT

Rumored That Defense Will Present Today the Full Report of Detective William J. Burns on Case.

C. W. Burke, a private investigator in the employ of counsel for Leo M. Frank, it is reported, will be the object of a scolding attack today by Solicitor General Hugh R. Dorsey, when the prosecution opens fire with its counter showing in the retrial hearing before Judge Hill.

Mr. Dorsey will not talk, but he intimates strongly that a mass of evidence has been accumulated by detectives against Burke.

Burke has been one of the most active figures in the investigation that has been prompted by Frank's counsel into the Mary Phagan murder mystery since the fight was opened for a new trial. He obtained the majority of the affidavits representing newly-discovered evidence which was contained in the new trial motion which Frank's defense filed Thursday.

The first day's hearing of the extraordinary motion for a new trial before Judge Hill was quiet, enough yesterday, but it only served to set the stage for fireworks that are expected today when Solicitor Hugh Dorsey fires his opening guns to combat the newly-discovered evidence of Frank's attorneys.

Rapid progress was made in the hearing, which began at 10 o'clock in a committee room of the state library in the capitol. The case is scheduled for 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, at which time Frank's counsel asked for an adjournment of the case for time to consider the injection of other matters which they have hitherto withheld.

May Present Burns Report.

It was rumored persistently that the defense would present the report of Detective William J. Burns at this morning's session. The convicted man's lawyers stated, however, that there was hardly a probability of this, as they intended concealing the report from the police, whom they accused of cooked facts.

Hugh Dorsey is expected to lay upon the table a mass of affidavits, which he is holding up his sleeve. He is fortified with numerous affidavits from witnesses, it is stated, who have made affidavits for the defense. Dorsey will also submit the report, which he is also said, into the process by which a number of affidavits submitted by the defense were obtained.

Dorsey will not talk on the subject. He intimates, however, sensational disclosures that will be down upon the program for today's proceedings. The defense likewise predicts startling revelations from their side of the fight. A large number of affidavits attacking the character of witnesses, it is said, will be presented by the prosecution.

Detectives Aid Dorsey.

Mr. Dorsey was surrounded during the hearing by eight of the picked men from the staff of headquarters detectives. These men have been promoting the bulk of the solicitor's investigation, and are John Black, Bass Rosser, Jim Doyal, Pat Campbell, John Starnes, Bob Wagoner, Ben Gillespie and M. McGill.

He strongly propounded vigorous attacks upon various phases of the newly-discovered evidence contained in the motion of the defense, when he took names and addresses from affidavits which Frank's lawyers submitted to Judge Hill. At one time he insisted upon the address of J. O. Knight, a notary who had attested an affidavit sworn by Ruth Robinson, a witness for the prosecution, who repudiates her testimony.

It is rumored that the Robinson girl has made an affidavit which has been put in the solicitor's hands, and which document will be the basis of a counter showing by the solicitor.

The notary's address, however, was not furnished, as Frank's counsel informed the solicitor that they were not acquainted with it. A detective was detailed by Dorsey to look it up.

"I want to get this notary public to face Ruth Robinson," Dorsey explained, although he would go no further into details.

Met Jim Conley.

A surprise was created when the defense introduced an affidavit signed by J. W. Booser, a collector for a tailoring firm located in Peters street, who testifies that he met Jim Conley on Peters street between 4 and 4:30 o'clock on the day Mary Phagan was murdered, and that he held a brief conversation with him.

Booser states in the affidavit that he had known Conley for considerable while, and that he had made repeated collections of weekly installments on a watch which the negro prisoner had bought from the concern with which Booser worked at the time. He says that on this particular Saturday he asked Conley to pay his regular installments.

Conley, Booser swears, told him that he could set the money from Leo Frank, as he had previously done. Booser states that Frank had frequently paid the negro's weekly dues—$1. This is the first time that this piece of evidence has been made public.

Mr. Dorsey's counter motion was not put on file Thursday. A demand that it be announced was made by the defense to Judge Hill at the opening of the hearing. Frank's counsel was informed by the judge that the solicitor had not filed any counter showing.

Motion Extraordinary.

The contents of the retrial motion extraordinary have been made public from time to time. They were read individually before Judge Ben Hill. There were nineteen grounds, each of which represents newly-discovered evidence. They were chiefly the Mary Rich document, in which the woman says she saw Conley emerge from the alley in the rear of the pencil factory about 11:30 o'clock on the day of the tragedy, then return.

Also the Booser affidavit; the affidavits from Dewey Howell, Ruth Robinson and C. Bruton Jallott, the character witnesses, who repudiated the testimony they gave on the witness stand; those of Mrs. Ethel Harris Miller and Mrs. M. Jaffe, who testified that Leo Frank at Whitehall and Alabama streets at 1:15 o'clock on the night of April 19.

Other affidavits were from Dr. H. P. Harris, who figures in the hair phase of the mystery, and Professor G. E. Bachman, professor of histology and anatomy in the Atlanta Medical college. Dr. Bachman gives an expert analysis of the composition of human hair and an important angle of his affidavit is the statement that hair does not alter or change the texture of hair. He is corroborated by Dr. J. W. Papes, professor of histology and anatomy, who makes a similar affidavit.

Duffy's Repudiation.

The affidavit of J. E. Duffy, the state witness who renounces his testimony, was also submitted, along with a similar document from Ivy Jones, the negro witness, who stated he saw Jim Conley on the day of the murder, but who denies his story. An affidavit from H. F. Becker, dealing with the new developments in the mystery of the murder notes, was also introduced.

Affidavits were presented by F. J. Paxson and Mrs. J. R. Simmons, who testify to the character of Mrs. Ethel Harris Miller. Perhaps the most sensational of the documents submitted were the affidavits pertaining to the story of Mrs. J. R. Simmons of Birmingham, who told the jury she prevailed upon the Frank trial of having heard screams from the basement of the pencil factory about 2:30 or 4 o'clock on the day Mary Phagan was slain.

Her affidavit is substantiated by numerous witnesses, who tell of having heard her talk of the screams she heard. She is also upheld by character witnesses.

Prejudice Charged.

Much stress was laid throughout the session upon prejudice and demonstrations during the Frank trial. It was alleged by Mrs. Simmons that four hundred her voice and deterred her from submitting her story to Frank's attorneys in the interest of truth. Others tell in their affidavits of similar experiences.

Only officials directly concerned in the hearing are permitted within the little room in which the motion is being threshed out. Stalwart doorkeepers remained on duty throughout the day, keeping scores of curious people out. The hearing will last is appreciable. It will run into Saturday, however, is the general prediction.

JUDGE HARRIS OUT FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Macon Jurist Declares He Is in Race—Formal Announcement and Platform to Be Published Soon.

Macon, Ga., April 23.—(Special.)—Judge N. E. Harris, of Macon, is squarely in the race for the governorship. To-night he authorized the Macon Telegraph to announce his candidacy, saying:

"I have decided to enter the race and feel that now is the propitious time to do it. My formal announcement with a statement of my platform will be ready for publication within a few days."

Judge Harris' announcement did not create any surprise here, for it had been pretty generally known among his friends that he would be in the race to succeed Governor Slaton.

Near Riot at Old Tabernacle Breaks Up "Healing" Meetings And Brings a Call for Police

The old Tabernacle was the scene of a near riot last night when a young man, who apparently had more curiosity than he did faith in the "divine healing power" of Mrs. M. R. Woodworth Eiter, was commanded by the "healer" to stop standing in a chair, from which point of vantage he was enjoying himself while gazing upon the mysterious proceedings of the "divine healer."

So despatched became the outlook for the continuance of peaceful relations that the police were called in to restore order.

Solicitors Evans and Gant rushed from police headquarters to the "meeting" and restored order. Shortly afterwards the large crowd which had been attracted to the scene dispersed, and the followers of the "divine healer" fled slowly out of the house.

Upon investigation the officers found that after Mrs. Eiter had ordered the young man to get out of his chair, he had withdrawn to the rear of the hall, where he stood up on a bench against the wall. An usher had rushed up to him and pulled him down to the floor, catching him by the tail of his coat.

The young man and several of his friends who had dropped in to the meeting with him had resented the affair, showing in a forcible way, it is said, their displeasure at the kind of treatment accorded their friend. No case was made against the young man.

Atlanta Greeks Wire

To Secretary Bryan Offering to Enlist

Three of Atlanta's young Greeks who returned April 4 from service in the Balkan war, will leave this afternoon to offer their services to Uncle Sam.

These youths were officers in the late war between their country and Turkey. They are Captain Gus Hondros, Lieutenant Jim Leves of third degree, and Chief Jimmie Hearty, of fifth class. They wired Secretary Bryan of their intentions, and received a telegram in reply commending them upon their volunteering to fight, as they expressed it, "under our American flag."

The Greeks declare that in the Balkan war there were many Americans who fought in the Greek army and they consider it their duty to reciprocate. They first go to Washington, D. C. and from there to Mexico.

PLEA FOR HOME ENDS
POLICE BOARD MEET

Seventeen Ballots Cast, But No Chairman Has Yet Been Elected.

After seventeen futile ballots had been cast by the members of the police board in the hope of electing a chairman for the honorable body, the commission yielded to the seductive word painting by Commissioner George F. Dickson of the manifold beauties and delights of home and adjourned. The commissioner, it is stated, lives in the suburbs and infinitely prefers home life to the turmoil of politics. So when seventeen ballots had ended about the same way that all others had gone, he decided it was about time to "break up" the meeting.

Forthwith he secured the floor and, breaking off from police and politics and chairmen, devoted his words to the attractiveness of home and wife and of kiddies in such a way as to win the unanimous consent of all the commissioners present.

"If you want to elect a commissioner," he advised, "do it on the outside. We can't do it here. Four hundred and eighty-six ballots have told us that, and I can't conceive anything more truthful than that. Let's vote we've thrown to the winds."

Here he was interrupted. "Winds and what else?" called Commissioner Johnson.

"Well," retorted Commissioner Dickson, "to Candidates Pace and Pahn."

"I had a lot rather be at home with my wife and children than here picking away at something which we all know is hopeless. I move we adjourn."

There were ten seconds in his motion. The whole board was moved.

The vote throughout the seventeen ballots stood five for Bill Pace, three for H. T. Pace and two for W. A. Verway, with the Verway vote evenly split and no vote to Pace at a moment's notice. Colonel and Lee Smith were absent.

ATLANTA SCHOOLS ON UNIT SYSTEM

grades in the schools at the present time.

Seven Years Sufficient.

The only doubt in the minds of some members of the board and others who have given study to the unit system is whether or not the average child can finish in seven years a course of studies it now requires children eight years to master. Commissioner Guinn, who made a study of the system in the city of Richmond, Baltimore, Houston, Dallas and other Texas cities, and learned that no difficulty was encountered. Wherever the system has been adopted, it has been successful.

Guinn, the school authorities devoted considerable time and thought to the subject of study and attendance, and considered the unit system as a means of study and by limiting the number of pupils in each class, the teacher, both student and teacher were benefited by the system.

When the school board, which stage of the subject dealing with the age limit of children applying for admission to the schools, it is very probable that the board will ask a change in the school limit, raising the limit of children to seven years.

Unanimously Approved.
